

SECTION 3

TEACHER: Before we start, Spiros and Hiroko, thanks for coming in today to talk about your recent study experiences and congratulations to you both in doing so well in your first semester exams! I'd like to discuss with you the value of the English for Academic Purposes course you did here last year before starting your university course. Spiros, if I could start with you, what parts of the programme have now proved to be particularly valuable to you?

SPIROS: I think that having to do a seminar presentation really helped me. For example, a couple of weeks ago in our marketing subject, when it was my turn to give a presentation I felt quite confident. Of course, I was still nervous but because I had done one before, I knew what to expect. Also, I know I was well-prepared and I had practised my timing. In fact, I think that in relation to some of the other people in my group, I did quite a good job because my overall style was quite professional. What about you, Hiroko?

Q21

HIROKO: Mmm, that's interesting. In my group, I was really surprised by the way the students did their presentations – they just read their notes aloud! Can you believe that? They didn't worry about their presentation style or keeping eye contact with their audience – and I remember that these things were really stressed to us in the course here.

Q22

TEACHER: So, how did you approach your presentation, Hiroko?

Tapescripts

HIROKO:	Well, to speak frankly, I read my notes too! At the time, it was a relief to do it this way, but actually when I had finished, I didn't feel any real sense of satisfaction . I didn't feel positive about the experience at all.	Q23
SPIROS:	That's a pity. You know, although I was pleased with my presentation, I am not so pleased with my actual performance right now in the tutorials – during the whole semester I've not said anything in our tutorial discussions. Not a word.	Q24
HIROKO:	Really, Spiros? Why's that? Do the other students talk too much?
SPIROS:	It's partly that, but it's mostly because I have had no confidence to speak out. Their style of speaking is so different – it's not the style we were used to during the course. They use so many colloquialisms, they're not very polite and sometimes there seems to be no order in their discussion. Also, they are very familiar with each other, so because they know each other's habits, they can let each other into the discussion.	Q25
HIROKO:	You're right, Spiros, I've experienced that too.
<hr/>
HIROKO:	For most of this semester, I've said absolutely nothing in tutorials. But recently, I've been trying to speak up more and I just jump in , and I've noticed an interesting thing, I've noticed that if they thought my point was interesting or new, then the next time they actually asked for my opinion, and then it was much easier for me to be part of the discussion.	Q26
SPIROS:	That's great, Hiroko! I hope that happens for me next semester – I'll have to work hard to find some interesting points. What helped you to find these ideas?
HIROKO:	I think that one thing that helped me with this was the reading. I've had to do so much reading this semester just to help me make sense of the lectures. At first I couldn't understand what the lecturers were talking about, so I had to turn to the books and journals . Every night I read for hours, using the lists of references that were given, and I made pages of notes. At breakfast, I read and read my notes again. This habit has helped me to follow the ideas in the lectures, and it's also given me some ideas to use in the tutorials.	Q27
SPIROS:	But I did so much reading anyway – I don't think there's any time left over for anything extra. My reading speed is still quite slow , though I'm much better at dealing with vocabulary than I used to be.	Q28
TEACHER:	What else do you think we could add to the course program to help with this reading problem?
SPIROS:	There's not really anything because it's my problem. I remember we were given long articles to read. We didn't like that but now I realise that reading those long articles was good preparation for the things I need to read now. Also, in class we regularly had speed-reading tasks to do, and we kept a record of our reading speed, so the teachers were encouraging us to work on that.
HIROKO:	That's true Spiros, but what we read could have been different. Sometimes in the English class I felt frustrated when I had to read articles about the environment or health or education, because I wanted to concentrate on my own field, but we didn't read anything about engineering . So, I think I wasted some time learning vocabulary I didn't need.	Q29
TEACHER:	But surely the strategies you were taught for dealing with that vocabulary were helpful.

Test 1

HIROKO: Yes, but psychologically speaking, I would have felt much better working on reading from my own field. What do you think Spiros? Q30

SPIROS: I agree; that would have helped my confidence too and I would have been more motivated. It was good though that we could work on our own topics when we wrote the research assignments.

TEACHER: Okay, let's move on to writing now ...
